

Teach to Reach Project

(22nd December 2018)

As part of the 'Teach to Reach' project, members of the LHS went to teach and care for children in the slums of the Hua Rot Juk Tuek Daeng community in Bangkok, in collaboration with Kru Puu; in addition to this, we also organized a small concert for the children. This project takes place every year during term breaks, with 2018 being the 8th consecutive year in which our project has been in operation. The majority of the children in the community come from families with troubled backgrounds, with many parents suffering from drug addiction or alcoholism. As such, several of them have suffered from domestic abuse and neglect, leading to a subpar quality of life. We regularly visit these children with the intention of letting them know that many people still care about them. Furthermore, we aim to raise awareness of the importance of education to them in order to attain a better future.

